As bridal fashions have broadened out to include a much more interesting variety of styles, the options for bridesmaids have also increased

So no longer must your chosen ones suffer the embarrassment of unflattering frocks in gaudy shades; as our Real Life and catwalk attendants here show, you can choose everything from stripes to floral patterns – and they're available in all the colours of the rainbow.

Beautiful bridesmaids have become the ultimate wedding accessory, so it's important to take time to consider what styles and shapes will best suit the ladies in your life. Of course your final decision should be heavily influenced by how the dresses will work alongside your gown, but the bridesmaid dresses can also play a vital role in setting the overall theme for the day. So if you want a more unusual wedding look then this is a great place to start!
